

SCENE ONE – THE WOODS

Enter Snow White

SNOW WHITE: Hello children I'm Snow White and I had a lovely coming home party last night. You see I've been away at boarding school and am home for the holidays.
Do you like parties? I do. It was so lovely to see my all my old friends again and especially lovely to see my father. I really have missed him. I haven't missed that awful woman he has married though. She is the Queen now. I don't think she likes me at all. Father would never have sent me away to boarding school if it hadn't been for her. But I have to say I have had a really lovely term there and made lots of new friends. Oh look there's Tom, the Woodsman.

TOM: Snow White, is it you?

SNOW WHITE: Yes Tom.

TOM: You've changed. Wow! Look at you, young lady. You have grown into a beautiful young woman.

SNOW WHITE: Have I?

TOM: Yes and I have really missed your lovely smiling face around here.

SNOW WHITE: Oh Tom. Did your children like the party?

TOM: They loved it Snow White. Thank you so much for inviting them.

SNOW WHITE: That's quite all right. It was lovely to see them all again.
I am going for a walk in the forest because it's so lovely today. Do come with me?

SONG: WALK IN THE FOREST

Will you come with me for a walk in the forest?
Down where the bluebells grow
And we'll drink in the sights and sounds of the forest
And leave when the sun's lost its glow.

High in the trees the birds will be singing
All of their sweet melodies
And the Oak and Ash and the Limes all will join in
By rustling their leaves in the breeze.

Will you come with me for a walk in the forest?
Down by the cool, clear stream
And we'll gaze at the fish and frogs as they frolic
And lie on the bank and dream.

High up above us the squirrels will play.
From tree to tree they'll leap
And the shy little creatures that life in the forest,
Will scamper around our feet.

TOM: I'd love to come with you Snow White, but I have a job to do. Don't want to get in trouble with her horrible majesty do I?

SNOW WHITE: I suppose not. Bye Tom.

TOM: You have a lovely day, Snow White,

SNOW WHITE: Thanks, I will.

SCENE TWO: THE CASTLE

QUEEN: Oh Mirror, the King is driving me mad. He's over the moon because his revolting daughter, Snow White is home. He decorated the whole place with bunting and held big homecoming party last night for her with lots of horrible children. I put my head round the door for 5 minutes and that was it. There was no way I was going to spend the night with a load of screaming brats.

Checks her hair in the mirror.

Oh, Mirror mirror on the wall
Who's the fairest of them all?

MIRROR: Why Queen, the fairest one is you,

QUEEN: Of course it is Mirror. How intelligent of you to notice.

MIRROR: At least it was 'til half past two.

QUEEN: Half past two, what are you talking about?

MIRROR: At half past two Snow White returned.

QUEEN: Well, yes she did but what's that got to do with anything?

MIRROR: From boarding school, she is well learned

QUEEN: So she should be it has cost us a fortune to keep her out of my way. Although it has been worth every penny if I'm really honest.

MIRROR: But her beauty's blossomed like a rose.

QUEEN: Stop it Mirror. Look at me!

MIRROR: She's got the prettiest little nose

QUEEN: I said stop it!

MIRROR: But Queen you always say I'm wise.

QUEEN: That's because you have always recognised that I am the fairest of them all.

MIRROR: A mirror never ever lies.

QUEEN: Urgggggh!!!! Where is that girl? No one will be prettier than me in this town. I'll make sure of that. Where's that Woodsman?

Queen storms off

SONG: MIRROR, MIRROR ON THE WALL

Chorus

Mirror mirror on the wall
Who's the fairest of them all?

A mirror never lies.
It can't deceive your eyes.
It sees what's there and that's a fact.
You stare at it and it stares back.
It can't pretend or it might crack.
A mirror never lies.

Chorus

A mirror never lies.
It's reflective, some say wise.
The images they come and go.
A smiley Jill, a grumpy Joe.
A spotty face, a healthy glow.
A mirror never lies.

A portrait can be doctored,
A photograph refined
But mirrors show what mirrors see.
It isn't always kind.

A mirror never lies.
Nor chooses to despise.
It hangs around all day and night.
Just look in it, you'll know I'm right
There's no one fairer than Snow White.
A mirror never lies.

Chorus

MIRROR: Remember children don't be vain.
Good looks can generate much pain.
And jealousy's a dreadful thing.
Who knows what evil it may bring?

Re-enter queen with Woodsman

QUEEN: Come inside Woodsman. I need you to do a little job for me.
